

Account

Friday, September 30, 2022

SUBSCRIBE

NEWS DATA & TOOLS EVENTS PODCASTS MAGAZINE ARCHIVES

MAGAZINE ARCHIVES

Airports Carriers Technology E-Commerce Express Freight Forwarders

PayCargo moves for dismissal in one CargoSprint case

PayCargo awaits damages following summary judgment in another case

by Caryn Livingston — November 22, 2021 in Technology

0

Share on Facebook Share on Twitter Share on LinkedIn

Listen to this article
0:01 / 2:04 1X

Payment platform PayCargo moved Nov. 9 to voluntarily dismiss without prejudice its case against a former employee and other parties that alleged the employee had misappropriated trade secrets in a new role with competitor CargoSprint.

In a second suit brought by PayCargo against CargoSprint and its founder and CEO Josh Wolf, PayCargo received summary judgment in support of its claims for trademark earlier this year, according to a court order for the case from the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida.

PayCargo is awaiting final judgment in relation to damages within the next few weeks, PayCargo Chief Legal Officer Jason Weber told Air Cargo World.

(Photo: Paycargo)

In the trade secrets case, also in the Southern District of Florida, PayCargo was “unable to obtain viable confirmation one way or the other” during the discovery period as to whether files the company alleged contained the trade secrets actually did contain them, according to the motion. Trade secret claims are difficult to prove without sworn testimony or recordings that corroborate the suspected misuse of trade secrets, Weber said of the motion.

“After discovery, we moved to dismiss, so if we get the evidence we need, we will refile,” Weber said.

For its part, CargoSprint has since moved for partial summary judgment in the trade secret case, according to a Nov. 15 filing with the court.

“CargoSprint (as well as others) got hit with several frivolous lawsuits after we refused to sell the company,” Wolf told Air Cargo World, adding the company “will not be intimidated and will continue to fight back when bullied.”

PayCargo originally filed claims against CargoSprint and other parties in 2019 in Georgia and Florida courts for “anticompetitive conduct.” The companies also disputed over CargoSprint’s previous name, PayAirCargo, but reached a settlement in 2016 that gave CargoSprint six months to change its name.

Tags: CargoSprint PayCargo Premium

Related Posts

TECHNOLOGY

Airfreight customers in need of green education

SEPTEMBER 29, 2022

SPECIALTY CARGO

Data visibility, handler training crucial for pharma shipments

SEPTEMBER 29, 2022

TECHNOLOGY

Digitalization tipping point depends on industry adoption

SEPTEMBER 28, 2022

TECHNOLOGY

Awery automates dangerous goods compliance documents

SEPTEMBER 27, 2022

TECHNOLOGY

Geopolitical shift demands digitization, multimodal transport

SEPTEMBER 26, 2022

TECHNOLOGY

FIATA launches electronic FBL in Asia Pacific, plans for blockchain

SEPTEMBER 20, 2022

NEWS

Customer demand drives digitalization in forwarding

TECHNOLOGY

Xeneta secures $80M investment

TECHNOLOGY

Unilode partners with OnAsset to create airborne

CONTAINERS

RENTALS
ULD-RENTALS.COM | BY SATCO

PALLETS

LEARN MORE

FROM OUR CONTRIBUTORS

Consultant Insight: Holiday peak season and the rocky road to normal

🕒 SEPTEMBER 27, 2022

On Logistics: BoxC on peak season, global e-commerce capacity

🕒 SEPTEMBER 26, 2022

Consultant Insight: FedEx works to right-size Express network

🕒 SEPTEMBER 23, 2022

SPONSORED

Chennault International Airport Completes Facility for Domestic, International Air Cargo

🕒 SEPTEMBER 7, 2022

NEWS DATA & TOOLS EVENTS  PODCASTS MAGAZINE ARCHIVES

pharma business further

NOVEMBER 9, 2021

CODEX by Virtual Control fills gaps in cold-chain shipment visibility

JULY 2, 2021

About Us

Contact Us

Privacy Terms

ADA Compliance

Advertise

Manage Cookie Consent

Follow Us

© 2022 Royal Media & Air Cargo World

